Caravel

1962

Following the theme of the "changes in OCHS this year," the Caravel is taking on a new look. Rather than use the traditional style, this year's Caravel will guide you through the year in chronological order. It will show OCHS before, during, and after the renovation.

WITH BEST WISHES FOR EVERYTHING IN THE FUTURE, THE YEARBOOK STAFF PRESENTS TO YOU

THE 1962 CARAVEL

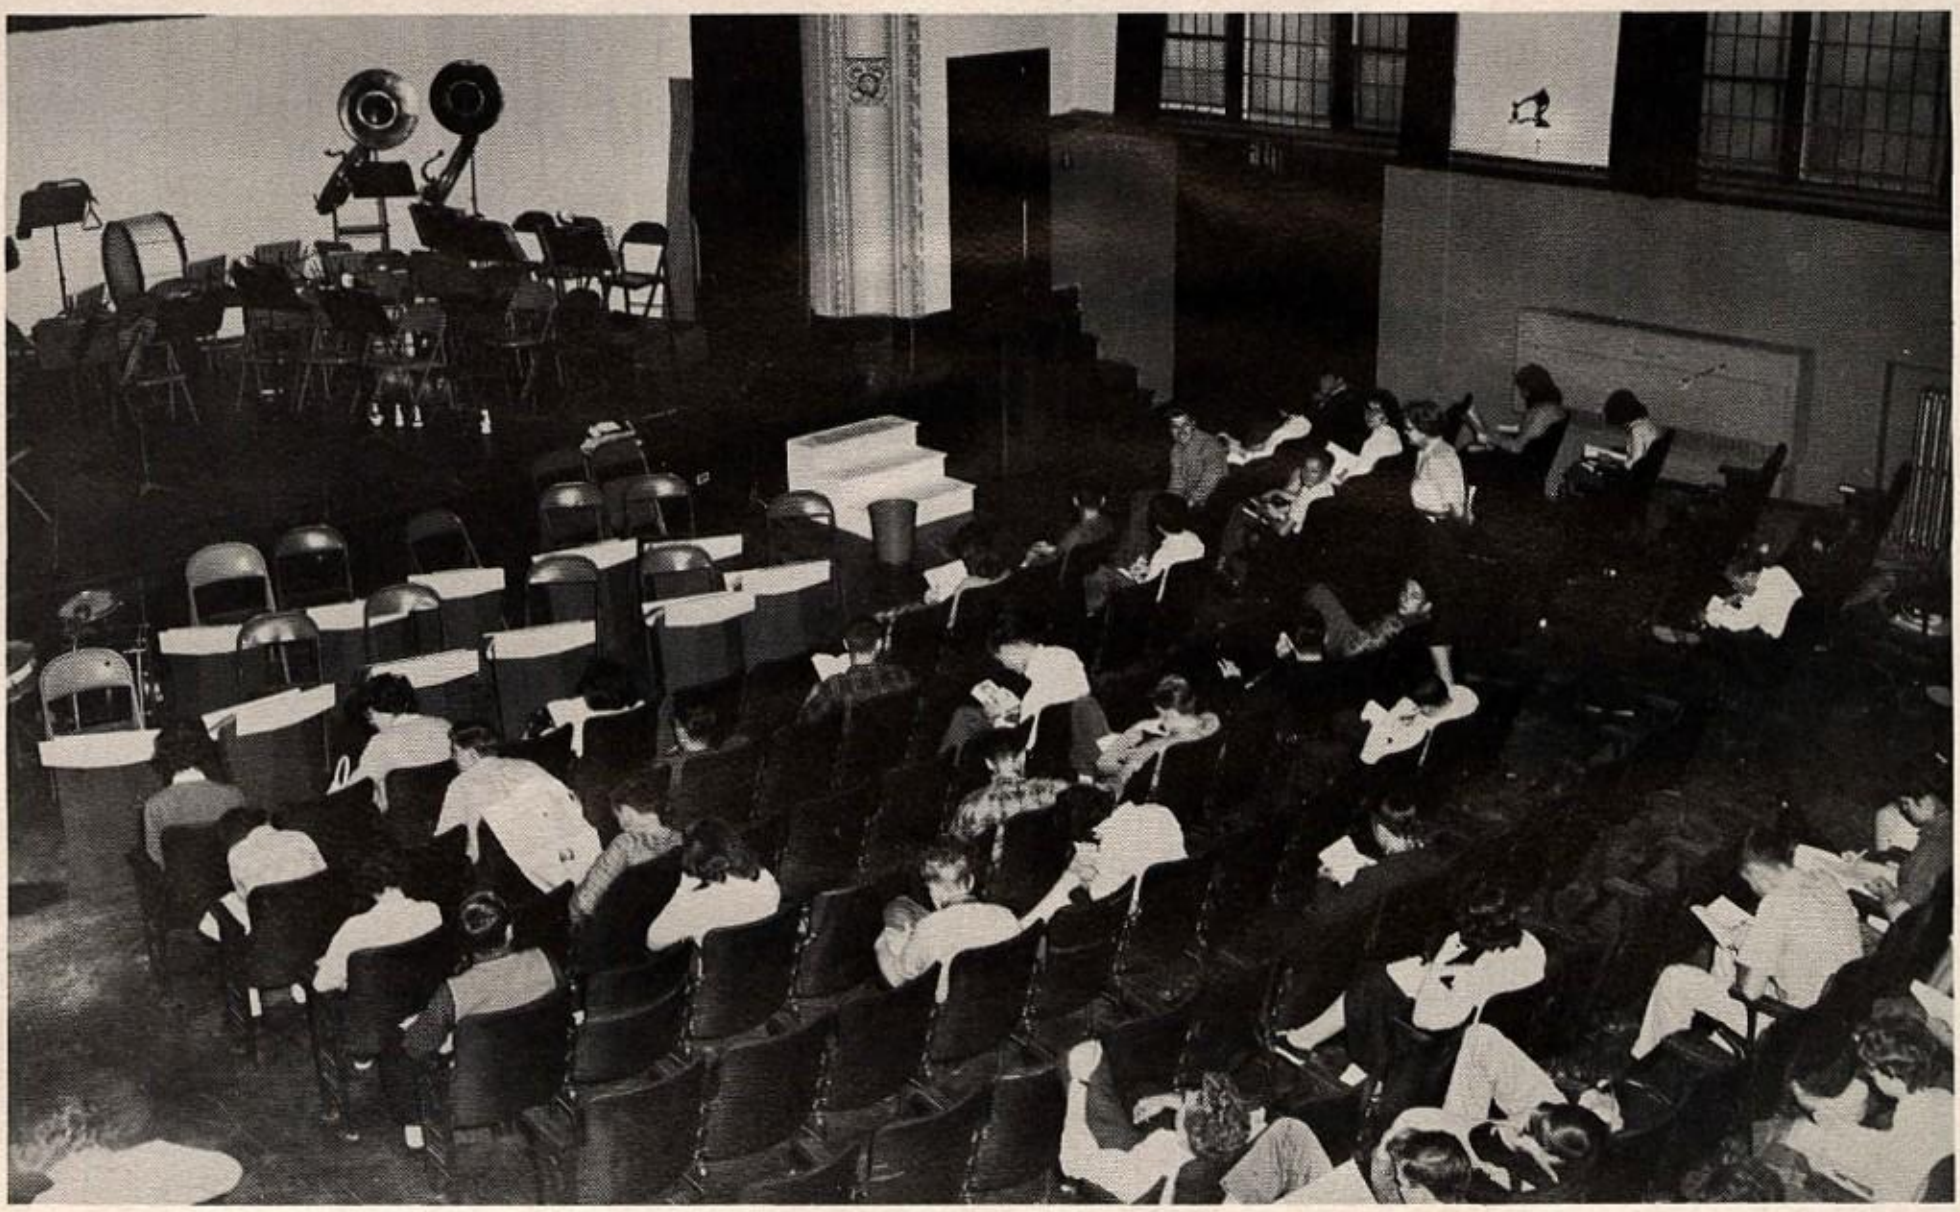
Summer

Do you remember . . . OCHS . . .



Seats were slowly being disassembled by students.

Rembrandt worked under these conditions?

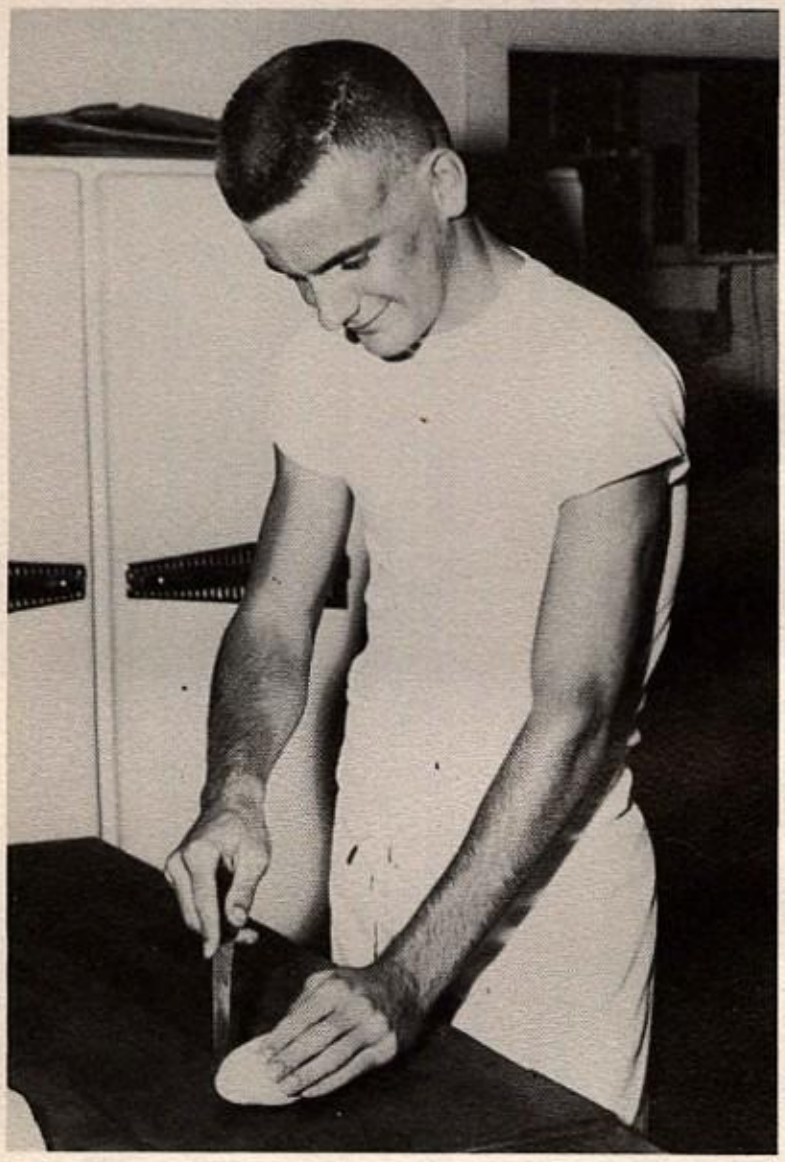
. . . as we left it last summer?

The chem lab's old equipment and leaky faucets plus the usual unsteady hand did much to increase the percent of error.

Even potential chefs weren't too happy.

Students of OCHS . . .

Grainger Studio



Is that a clam or a hoagie roll?

Grainger Studio

What's ailing you now?

Grainger Studio

Don't worry! You'll be off in eight hours.

Senior Studio

You call this a summer job?

Grainger Studio

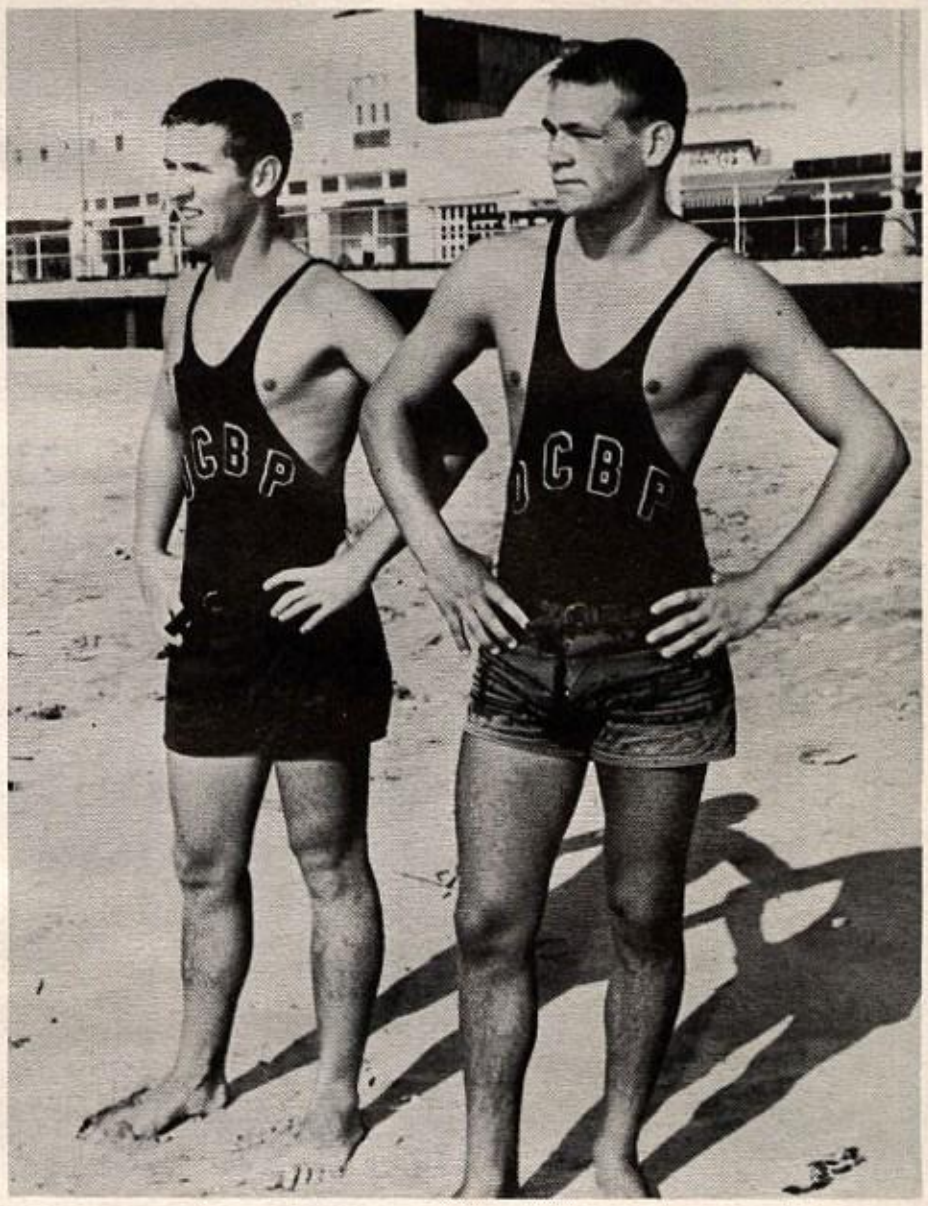
One more piece of cotton candy and I'll die!

. . . . . catering to the visitors.

Grainger Studio

Better use the adding machine!

Grainger Studio



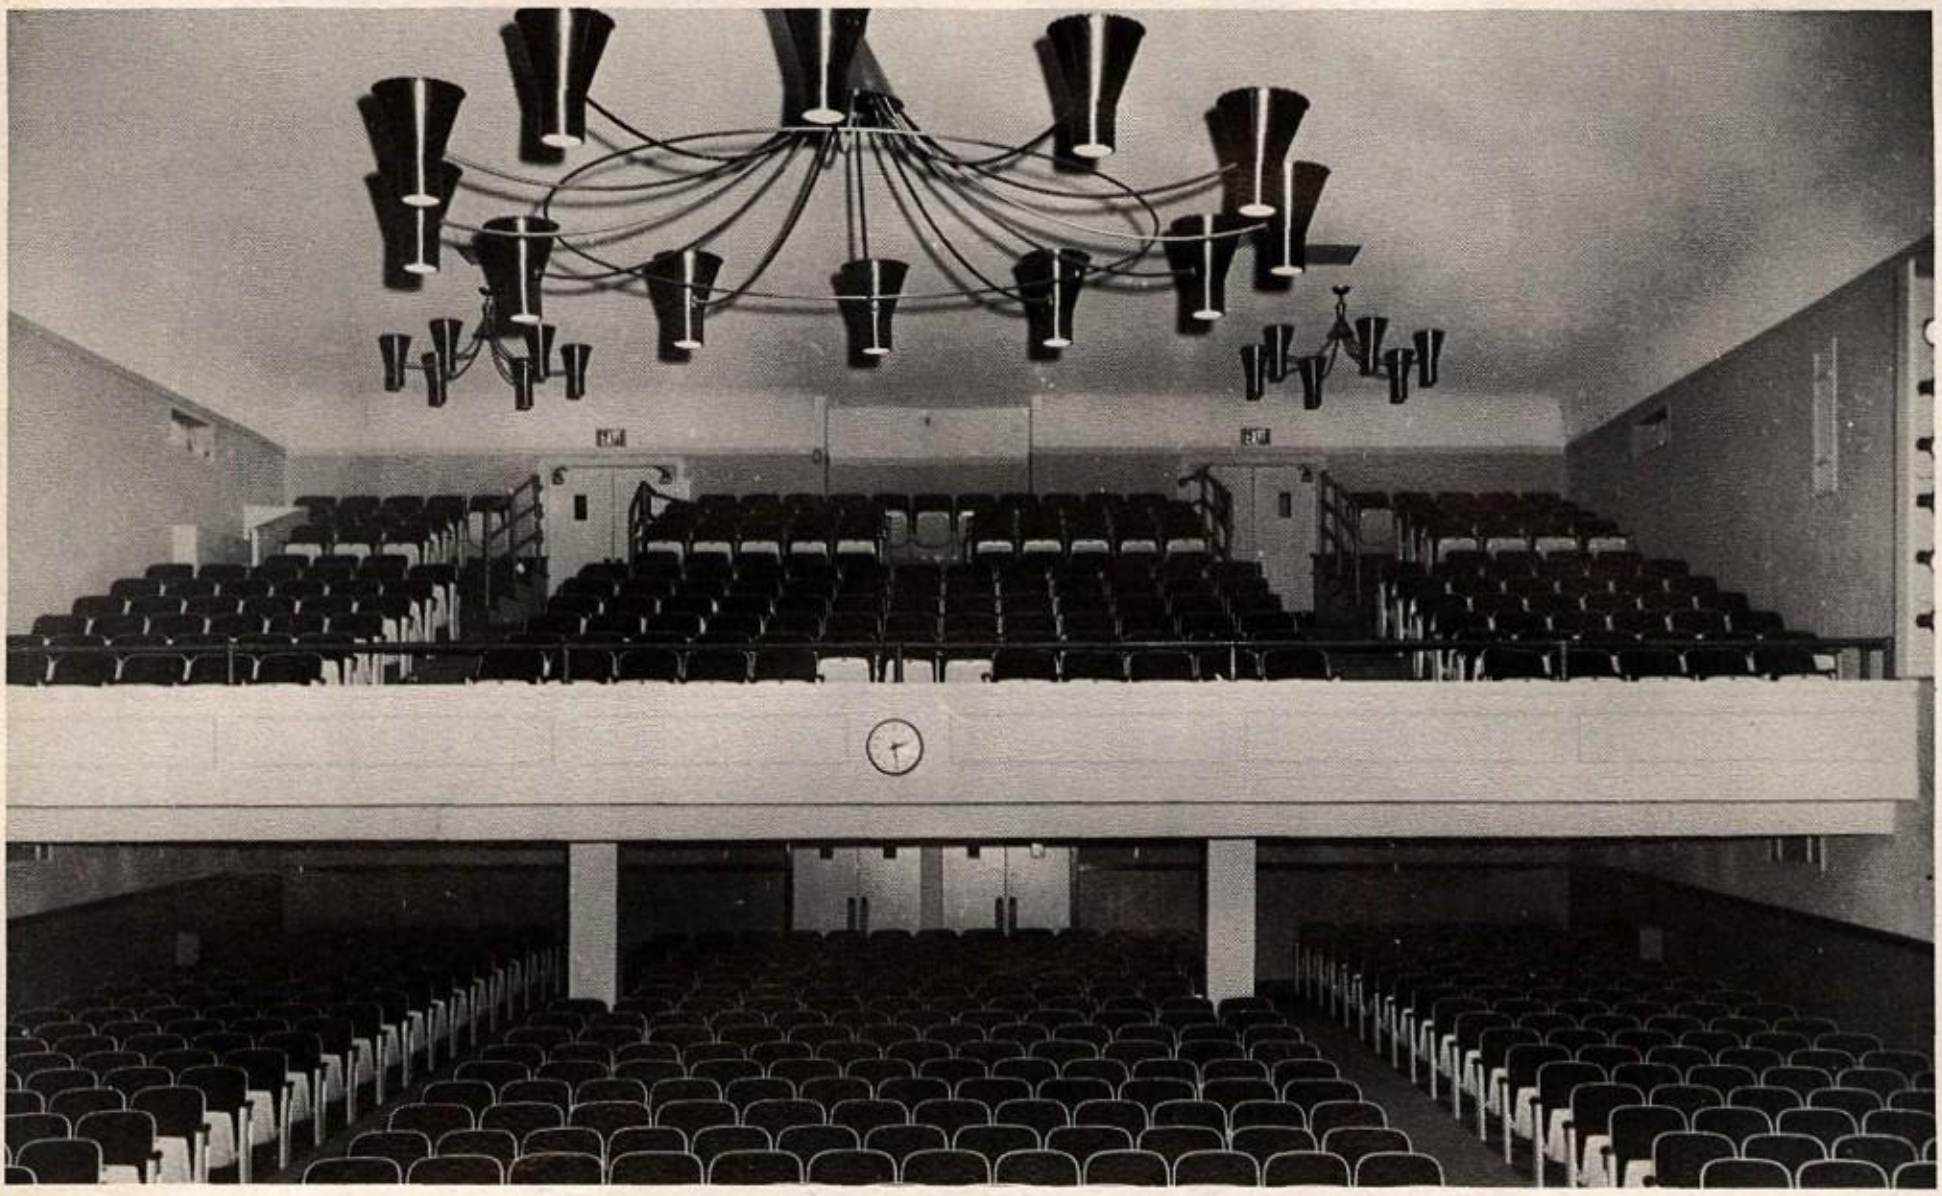
Think she's really drowning?

Grainger Studio

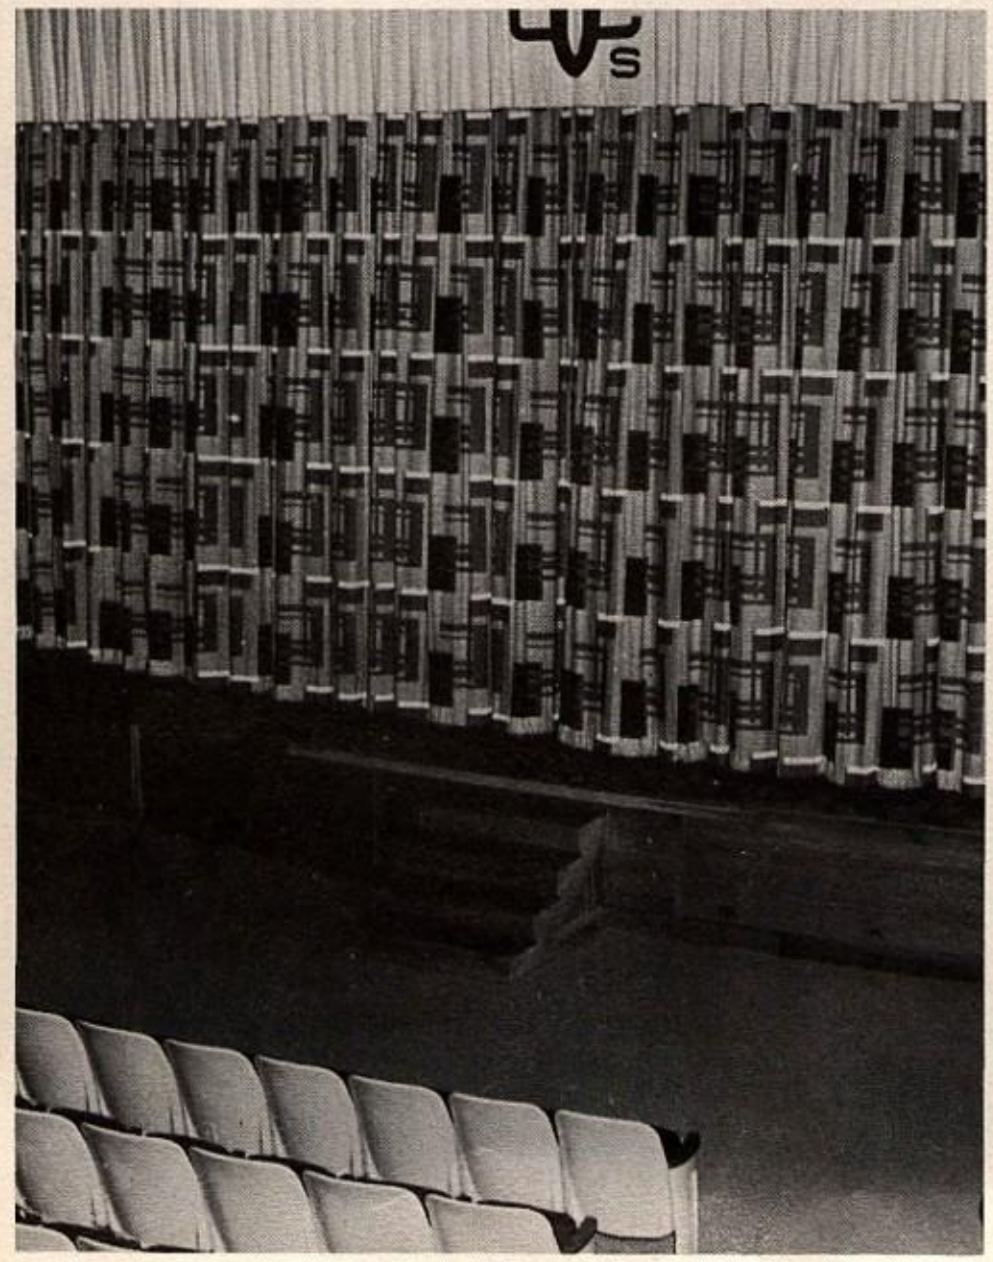
That's two waters, will there be anything else?

Autumn

Upon returning . . .



Not a creature was stirring—except maybe a mouse.

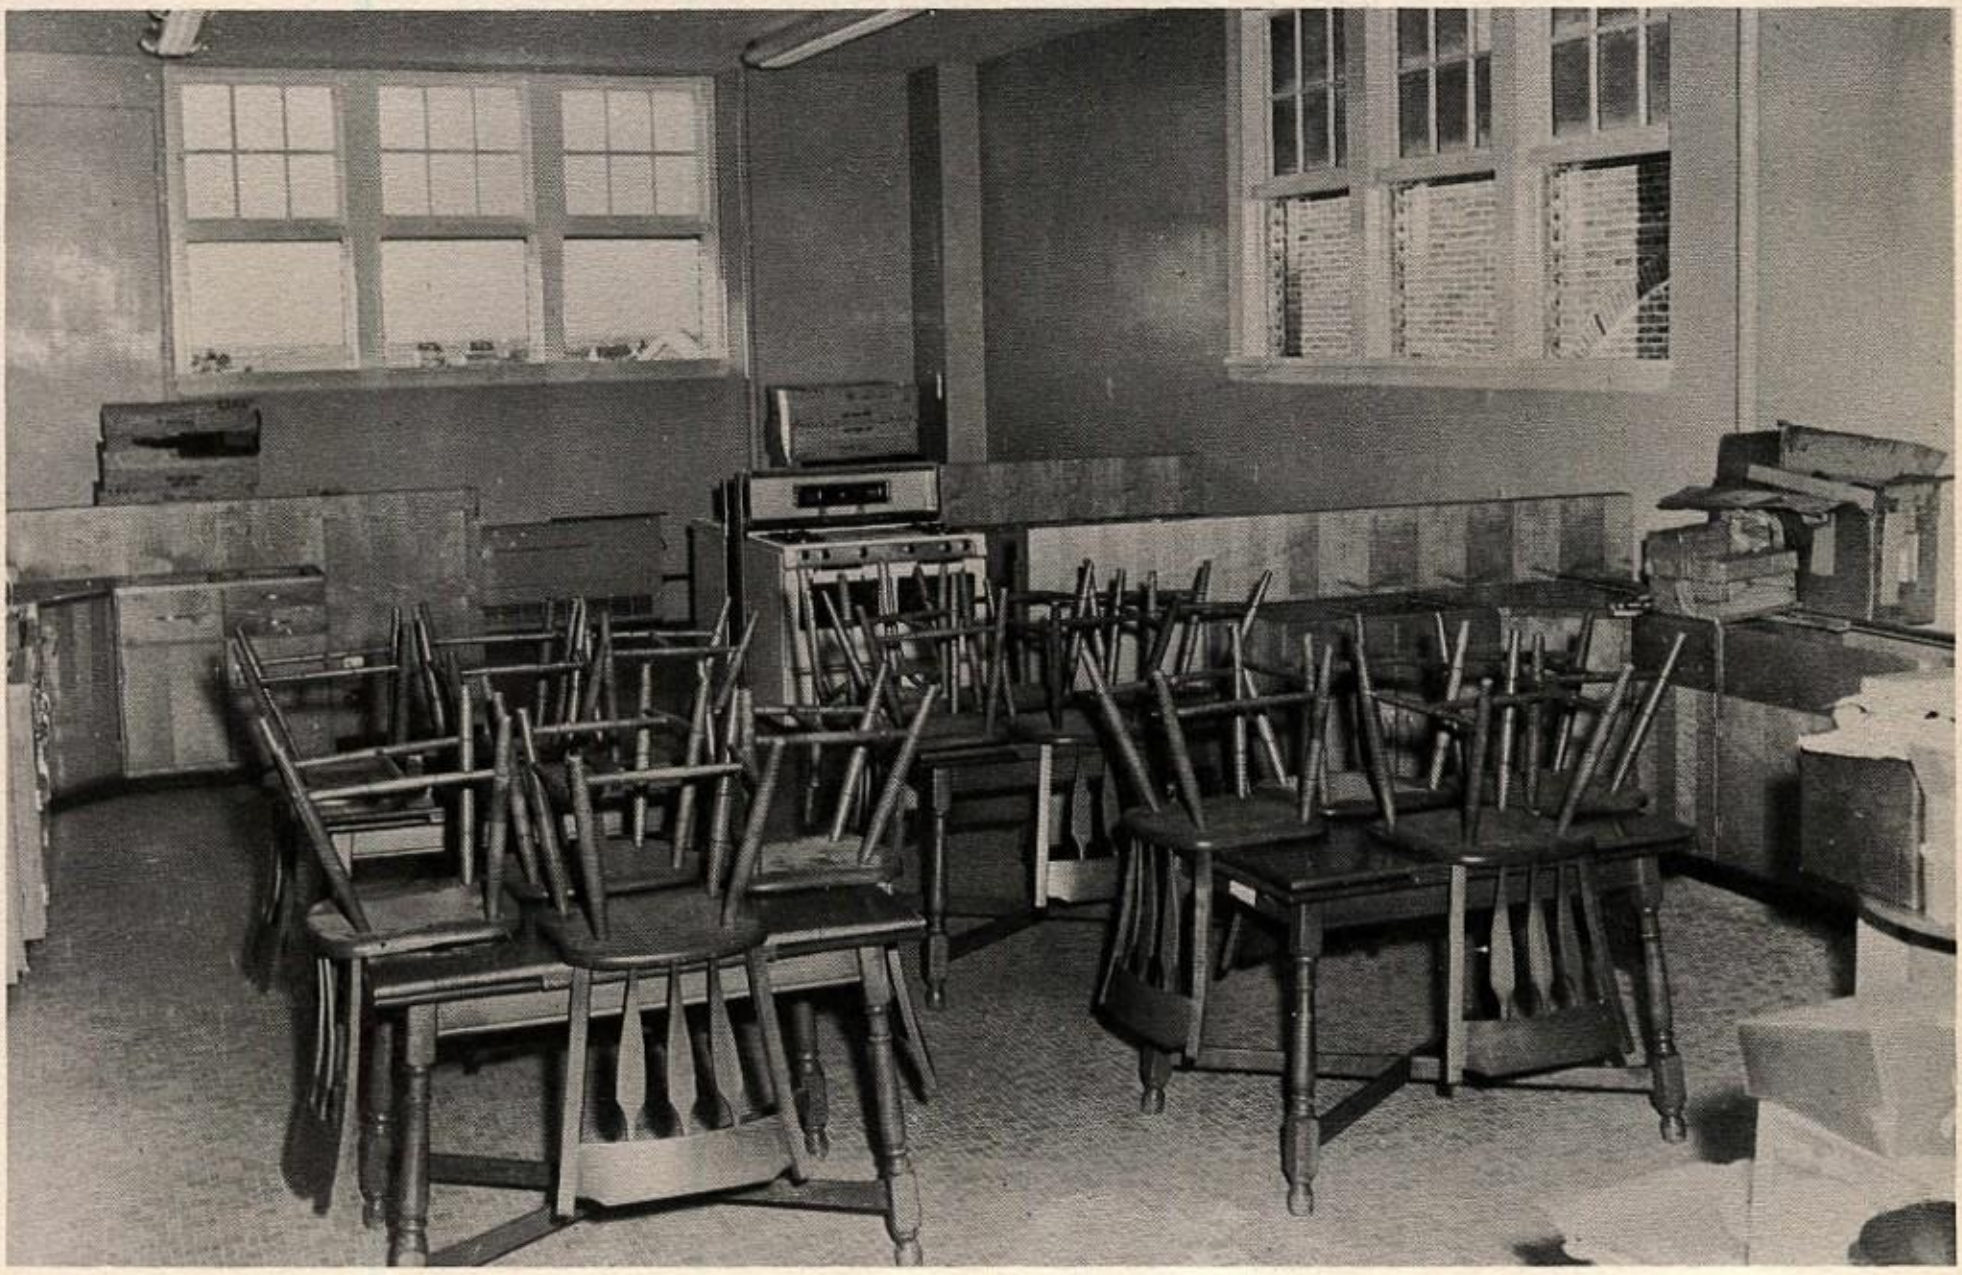


No longer is OCHS askew.

What can you say about it? It's a darkroom!

. . . this is how we found it!

The first essential to a good experiment—a neat lab!



Everything should be tasty, with a liberal sprinkling of sawdust.

We are nearing our goal.
Our rings, signs of status,
Are winking boldly from our hands
Saying to the Seniors,
"Now we, too, are elite."
And the bustling burden
Of the Fair is a symbol that
We are almost Seniors!

Children no more, almost adults,
We can spell Sophomore with three O's.
One year behind, two to go.
Not quite steady, but oh,
So sophisticated. Uncertain yet,
But gaining authority.
We are the Sophomore Class,
One day we'll be Seniors.

OCHS Cheerleaders

Miss Headlee and Meg Gleason discuss a routine.

MEG GLEASON Grainger Studio

Our seven cheerleaders at OCHS, under the direction of Miss Nancy Headlee, lead a very active life. The girls add a great deal of pep and color to our football and basketball games. In order to perform well, they practice incessantly. Along with practicing and participating in other activities, these girls organize and lead our pep rallies. The teams, who feel that they receive a great deal of backing from the cheering squad, have much confidence in our capable, energetic cheerleaders.

Spell out "Victory."

Observing the crowd is Mrs. Bell, advisor.

Eight spirited girls, directed by Mrs. Jean Bell, comprise the Ocean City High School majorette squad. Each majorette reveals a combination of talent and interest. The majorettes' talent comes to light when every routine is enacted with precision and ability. Because of their intense interest, the girls practice daily so that they may present only the best. Wherever the majorettes go, we are proud that they are the Ocean City High School Majorettes.

Front Line

Bearing the colors, the front line marches before the band. These girls, supervised by Mr. Warren Miller hold positions of honor. They carry the American, state, and school flags. Donna Pfander, captain of this marching unit, carries a sword and marches in front of the other girls. She commands them from this position. Although they can not perform intricate routines, the girls do attempt to devise wheels and countermarches which vary from game to game. Each half time and all parades find the members of the OCHS front line on the job.

OCHS Drill Team

Marching along behind the band with heads held high, the drill team makes its appearance. This group, directed by Miss Delphine Schmid, does precision marching and combines with the band to make formations on the field at half time football game performances. These girls in their short black skirts and vests brave the chill weather in order to entertain at half time. This marching group is comprised of eighth and ninth grade girls, headed this year by Leslie Fickes and Marilyn Booth.

OCHS Marching . . .

Ranging from tiny to tall the OCHS marching band members proudly display their new uniforms.

With renewed spirit and precision, the OCHS band, under the direction of Mr. Warren Miller, performs at all football games and pep rallies. A more select group than ever before, all members are truly skillful in playing their instruments. Their uniforms and music add sparkle and color to the crisp atmosphere of fall football games.

A recent innovation, the dance band evolved from the concert band which was established last year. Its presence at social affairs lends variety and interest, as well as music. A tip of the hat to a revitalized organization.

The band, majorettes, and front line combine to present the half-time entertainment.

Mr. Warren Miller, the instrumental music teacher, deserves a vote of thanks and a word of praise from OCHS students. With Mr. Miller is Warren Gans, a member of the Dance Band, and the only member of the South Jersey Band from Ocean City High School.

OCHS Football Squad

The 1961 Football season brought to OCHS a disappointing win and loss record, but one of enlightening spiritual conduct. Coaches Haack and Prohaska stated, "This is the best bunch of boys we have ever handled." This team did not always win on the scoreboard, but always won on the gridiron —it is not always the score which decides the better team. Our boys were always in the game physically, spiritually, and morally. The Caravel staff salutes Coach Prohaska, Coach Haack, the co-captains, and the entire football team for this great achievement and for their terrific efforts throughout the 1961 Pigskin campaign. The Raiders won the "biggest game of all."

Coaches Prohaska and Haack talk with Co-captains of the Football team, Harry Smith and Alan McNelis.

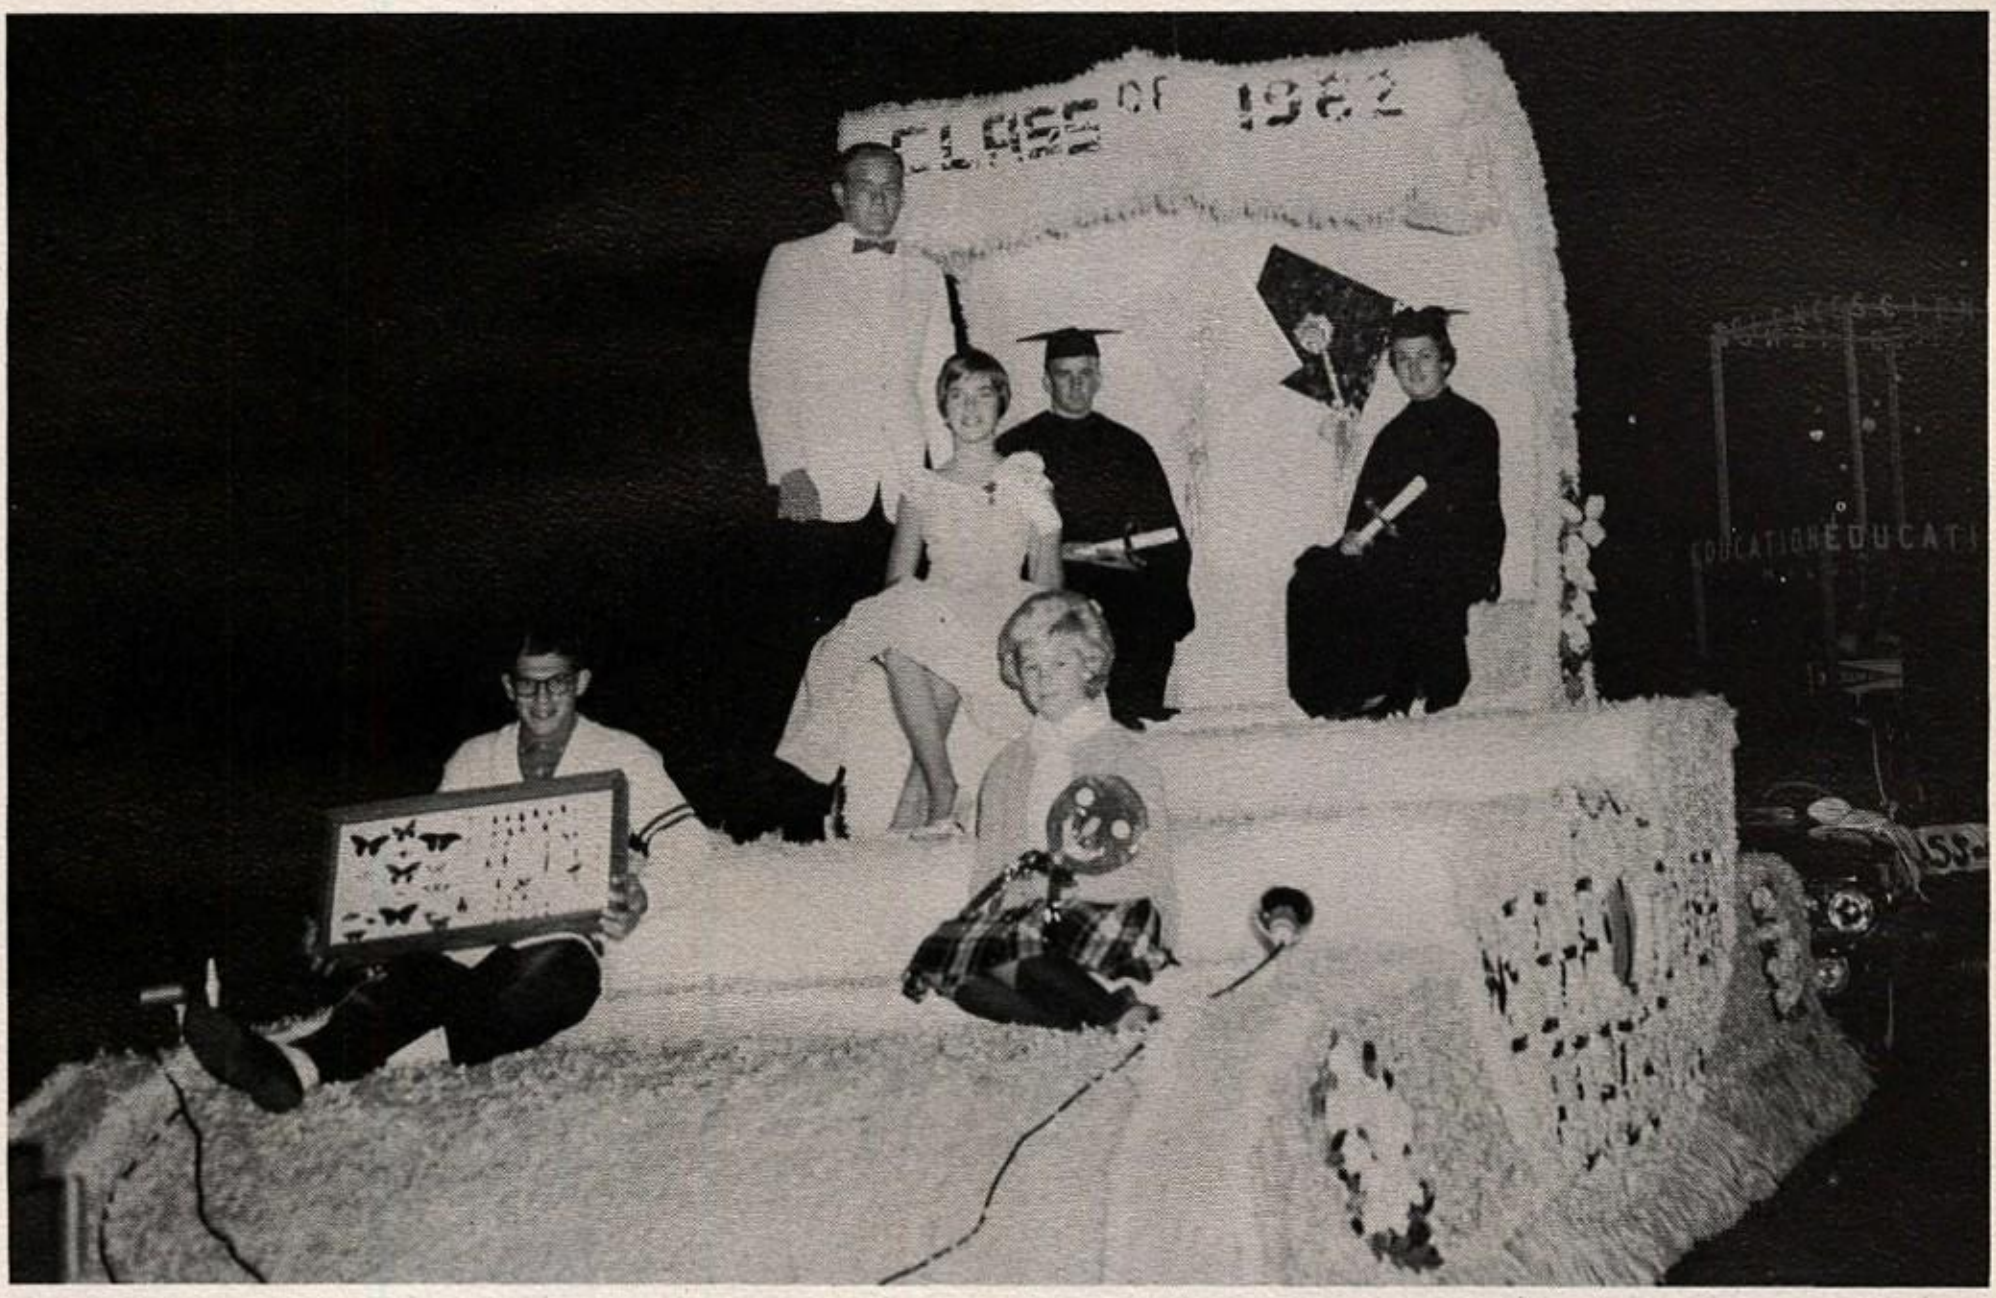
The Juniors' second prize float, "Building Blocks of America," in the annual Halloween parade.

Setting a precedent, the Sophomores entered their float, "America's Greatest Family Resort," in the parade along with the upperclassmen.

. . . and Queens!



"We shall never forget" was the theme of our first-prize winning Senior float.

Miss Snowflake, Junior Amy Van Gilder, reigned over Ocean City's annual Christmas parade.

Miss Pumpkin, Senior Melissa Harp, rode as royalty on the Exchange Club float in the Halloween parade.

"Pappy" Dorsey Hostler and Stephanie Dean delighted the audience with their countrified introductions.

Junior Fair

With enormous expenses such as the prom and yearbook looming in the distance Juniors venture into many money-making schemes. Traditionally there is an annual Junior Fair. This affair involves a water show, talent show, and booths for selling food or playing games. It is held in middle November and lasts for two nights. The theme of this year's fair was "Country Fair" and this theme was carried out in all decorations in the gym.

The talent show has several familiar features: the girls' chorus line and the boys' chorus line. These acts were two of the most popular both in 1960 and 1961.

The project this year was a great success.

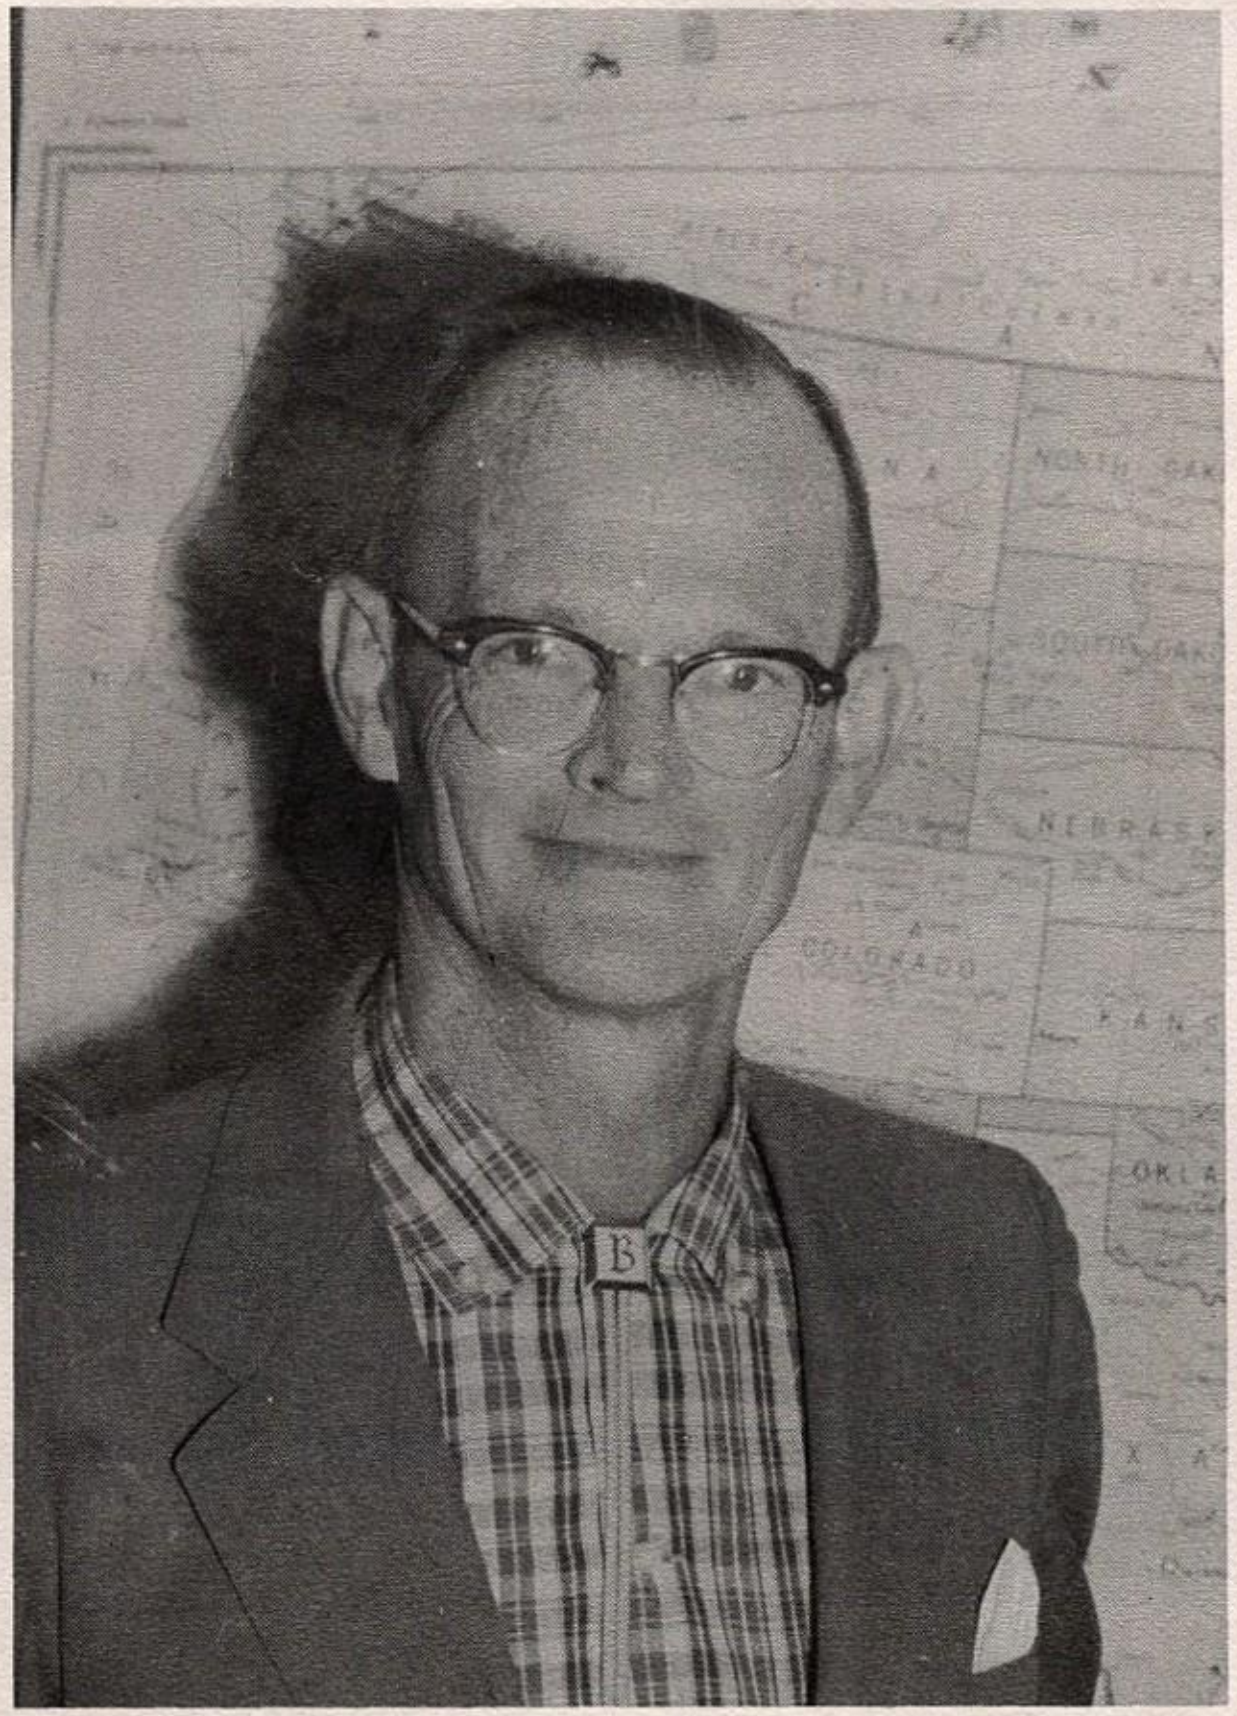
In Memoriam



GEORGE BOWMAN

November brought with it the sorrowful news of the death of Mr. George Bowman. This man gave hundreds of Ocean City High School students a background of chemistry seldom found in high school teaching. His enthusiasm and tremendous store of knowledge inspired even those not scientifically inclined. Because he did not teach last year, Mr. Bowman was not as well-known to the student body as in previous years, but the few months he was with us endeared him to our hearts. It seems only fitting that we, the Class of 1962, give this yearbook in the lasting memory of Mr. George Bowman.

Student Council

President ..... BONNY CORNWELL
Vice President ..... ANGEL DALRYMPLE
Secretary ..... BUTCH MILLIGAN
Treasurer ..... CANDY SICKEROTT

The Student Council is an outstanding and active organization at OCHS. At the beginning of each school year one representative and one alternate are elected from each homeroom. These members make known to the entire student body the Council activities.

Under the direction of Mr. John Rosebery, the Council has originated various projects, among which are Dress-up Day, Student Government Day, and the Christmas Dance. The Student Council also gives a scholarship to an outstanding Senior each year.

This year the Student Council has adopted some new activities. Two of the new projects were a student fashion show and inter-class play contest.

The Caravel staff salutes the Student Council for its fine job.

The Executive Committee works in cooperation with the officers. Members are: seated: C. Gardner, P. Gibson, B. DeBaufre. Standing: M. Creighton, S. Bergh, J. Hartman, P. Swartz, J. Herrington.

The Billows

Mr. Joseph Ricci, advisor of the Billows, peruses the paper.

"Writers provide a mirror of the life of their times." School newspapers mirror the school, its students, and their activities, as they appear in the eyes of the reporters. Ocean City High School's paper, the Billows, has been for many years incorporated in the city's weekly newspaper. For this reason, it can not be considered, in all ways, to be the paper for the students. Actually, the Billows provides a window into OCHS for hundreds of people who have no real connection with the school. Through this window, images of youth and its interests are viewed by the elder members of Ocean City.

The staff members and editors of the Billows work with Mr. Joseph Ricci, their new advisor, in an attempt to bring recent happenings to the school's attention in an interesting and enlightening fashion. A glance at the Billows posted in the main hall usually proves that they have done their job well.

This organization puts out the paper, is in charge of selling Senior name cards, shakeroos and football programs, and carries out the annual E Pluribus Duo assembly, a contest for Mr. and Miss OCHS. Long time members are rewarded for good service by attending the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Conference in New York in March.

The Caravel Staff thanks this group which puts an untold number of hours into something which most students accept without a thought.

One of the busiest activities of the Senior Year is producing the Caravel. This year's staff is made up of some of the most dedicated workers in the class, who are spurred on by the hard-working editors. Since the yearbook is sent section by section to the printer, there is always an ominous deadline looming in the not-so-distant future. Much threatening, groaning, and frantic action come from room 110 during the chaotic days just before a deadline. Mr. Pulvino, the editors, and the staff have worked hard to produce "the greatest yearbook ever." From our staff comes a sincere wish that you will all read, enjoy, appreciate, and remember the Caravel of 1962.

The Flintstones dominated the theme of this year's yearbook assembly.

TREASURER	DONNA SWAN
CORRESPONDING SECRETARY	LYNNE ELY
RECORDING SECRETARY	MEG GLEASON
HISTORIAN	MIMI HOWE

Directed by Miss Mary Kassab, Ocean City's branch of the National Honor Society serves the school in several capacities. Activities in which it participates include selling chrysanthemums for the Thanksgiving Day game, selling school writing paper, promoting student-faculty relations with a tea given for the teachers, and sponsoring an annual conference of all South Jersey branches of the National Honor Society. A scholarship grant is given by the society to a deserving Senior. It also sponsors a "Student of the Month" program, and places a weekly quote in the main hall.

Members of this select group are chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and service.

A new organization this year, the Business Club, shows promise of being strong in O.C.H.S. Under the direction of Mr. William Lauer and Mrs. Mary Loper, the club operates under its official constitution. The Business Club has participated in various activities, among which was the sale of fruit cakes.

Members visited the bank and traveled to other cities so that they might become acquainted with other business organizations. At the end of the school year, a deserving Senior will be awarded a scholarship donated by this student organization.

Leaders' Corps

The Girls' Physical Education Department and the Leaders' Corps are under the able direction of Miss Miriam Reichly and Miss Nancy Headlee. The Leaders' Corps is made up of girls who are elected by their classmates as the girls to guide the gym teams. The sports are played competitively, with the winning team receiving points. At the end of the year, the color team which has accumulated the most points wins and each girl receives an award. The leaders try to build interests and skills among the girls in gym activities. They are expected to participate in after school sports that are offered each marking period in order to earn a HH, which is honor in citizenship and gym work.

Youth Center

CO-PRESIDENTS	BETTY ANN DEBAUFRE HARRY SMITH
CO-VICE PRESIDENTS	RUTH MONTAGNA JACK BELLO
SECRETARY	GINNY SEIGFRIED
TREASURER	NANCY MONTAGNA

The Ocean City Youth Center is a municipal building devoted, during the school year, to high school students. Part of its operating costs are donated by local clubs and organizations, the rest are accumulated through membership dues. Students in Ocean City take the "Center" for granted, never stopping to think what they would do without it. The "Center" has become the nucleus of social life. Under the guiding influence of Don Pileggi and George Loder, the "Center" is the biggest reason for the minimum of juvenile delinquency in this community. We are all thankful and appreciative of their efforts.

Whether you want to dance, play darts or ping-pong, watch television, or just relax, the "Center" is the place to go. Youth needs such a place to be out of the critical eye of adults, in an air of responsibility and pride because they feel the "Center" belongs to them. We are very fortunate in that our town realizes the need for and condones such a venture. The yearbook staff offers a word of gratitude to the people responsible for the "Center," its beginning, and its growth.

Youth Center Board Members: FIRST ROW: G. Siegfried, J. Bello, R. Montagna, B. DeBaufre, H. Smith, N. Mantagna, H. Schneider. SECOND ROW: J. Beddow, C. Milligan, T. Herrington, C. Beddow, J. Groogan, M. Gleason, J. Crowers, J. Walters, T. Andrews.

Don Pileggi and George Loder keep everything under control at the "Center."

Occasional record hops add variety to the regular "Center" schedule.

Varsity basketball captain Jerry Fadden and Coach "Dixie" Howell discuss plans for the game.

Basketball

The 1961-62 basketball season unveiled one of the most exciting teams in New Jersey, the Ocean City Red Raiders. Led by Coach "Dixie" Howell and their aggressive captain Jerry Fadden, the Raiders proved to be really tough competitors. This year's tremendous record was the result of a great "team" effort. In no skirmish did one player dominate the game, but rather the five Raiders on the court and the players on the bench combined to consistently bring home the victory. Ocean City once again retained the Cape-Atlantic League crown as well as played sensational ball in the N.J.S.I.A.A. Tournament. Recognition is certainly due to Dixie Howell and all the members of the varsity squad. We can not overlook the fine play of the J.V. team, led by Coach John Camarote, or the Freshman team, coached by Mr. William Kupersmith. These two squads with their up and coming players will, undoubtedly, provide Ocean City Raiders with winning teams for years to come.

Congratulations from the Caravel staff to all members of the Raider Basketball teams.

Swimming

This year's Varsity Swimming Team was the best aquatic squad ever to represent Ocean City High School. It not only won most of its meets, but it also broke and tied many pool records. The tankmen built up a reputation as having the "most powerful relay team in South Jersey." Because of depth in his swimmers, Coach Carey was able to successfully juggle his swimmers into one strong winning unit. It is amazing that a team so recently developed was able to go on and win the relay in the State meet. The Caravel staff feels congratulations are due Coach Carey and his swimming squad for a tremendous year, one which added immeasurably to the prestige of OCHS.
